Civil War Trivia

On July 16, 1863, as the Republic basked in the aftermath of its victories at Gettysburg, and Tullahoma, it was achieving yet another success, in far-off Japan, where the six-gun U.S.S. Wyoming sank two vessels, damaged a third, and shot up shore installations in the Shimonoseki Straits, in retaliation for an attack by the Choshu Clan on an American merchant ship.
