

Virtual NPMA Legislative Day

March 17, 2021

The National Pest Management Association traditionally provides a Legislative Conference and appointments with Senators and Representatives in Washington DC each year.

A team of pest management professionals assembled at the GPCA office in Norcross to participate in this event together to show a unified voice to our legislators. Glenda Lehmborg, Executive Director of CPCO of GA, participated to represent the Association.

NPMA kicked off the day by announcing awards which included the PestVet of the Year, received by Dr. Stan Cope of Catchmaster and the Legislative Award to Bonnie Rabe, of Rollins Inc. Following conference speakers, the GA group had an opportunity to meet with legislators from across the state.

The group highlighted the magnitude of the pest control industry, the essential services to public health & consumer protection and positions on topics such as preemption.

The overall experience proved positive and hopeful that those who engaged with our team understand more clearly the pest management industry, the concerns and support of legislation this year. ☆☆☆
