Wycliffe.org website

In June, I shared about the Wycliffe.org website. The website recently changed. Here is what it looks like now.

In the last letter, I highlighted the blogs. To get to them now, you need to click on the 3 bars at the far right. A pull down menu will appear and the blog site is at the bottom of the left column. There are wonderful stories of God at work around the world in those blogs.

For this newsletter, I want to highlight the resources that Wycliffe provides free of charge for churches and families. So again, you hit the 3 bars on the far right. In the pull down menu's right column, you will see a section called "Churches" and underneath that is a heading "Kids". When you click on "Kids" the following shows up.

Here is Wycliffe's blurb about the Kate & Mack materials:

"Kate, a missionary kid, and her faithful parrot friend, Mack, are on an adventure to meet friends all over the world.

As Kate and Mack explore new places and cultures, the kids in your church will learn about God's great love for all people and why everyone needs a Bible they can understand.

Kate & Mack crafts, games, recipes and activities are perfect for kids from kindergarten through 5th grade!"

You should check them out. They are great for Sunday School programs, home school missions curriculum and VBS (for next summer).

Praise:

- For the materials that are available to inspire kids in the work of Bible translation
- For a great Loveland family reunion on July

Prayer:

- For translators that are working to get the Word into the hands of others
