THE VOICE

Truth-Telling

I seem to remember some lines from a poem I learnt at school: 'Oh, what a tangled web we weave, when first we practise to deceive.'

To guard against deceptions, many societies and organisations, including the Church, require a person to swear an oath to bolster their assertion that they are telling 'the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth'.

But, we have just heard the least observed command of Our Lord in the Sermon on the Mount. Referring to oaths he taught, 'Do not swear at all ...instead let your "yes" mean yes and your "no" mean no. Whatever goes beyond these simple words is from the Evil One.'

The early Church took this prohibition extremely seriously. It was only when the Church and State became entwined three hundred years later that that policy changed. The Church preferred to avoid tension with the political authority which required oaths as a supposed guarantee of truthful speaking.

The Church was weak, whereas Our Lord was strong. When He was challenged by the High Priest to swear by the Living God whether He was the Christ, Jesus simply replied: 'The words are yours', refusing to invoke the Living God. (Matt 26:63-64). Aren't we meant to imitate Jesus?

'Yes or No.' Our Lord tells us: '...anything more than this comes from the Evil One.' This is strong language. Why does Our Lord say this?

In the same Sermon on the Mount, he teaches us the proper use of God's name: 'Our Father'. It is the beginning of the prayer which is Jesus' gift to his community. It is our privilege and right as adopted children of God to use God's name in that way. That is the way in which Our Lord wants us to use the name of God. The use of God's name for oath-swearing is an abuse.

It is clear that Our Lord was trying to establish a new sort of society (The Kingdom) within which truth-telling was of paramount importance, where there is no two tiered way of speaking the truth. Anything more by way of pious veneer devalues plain speaking. Straightforward, unadorned language will do.

Truth telling should issue simply from the character of the person – the truthful person truths.

We know this at the very private level of intimate relationships. Such relationships are easily fractured or soured by lying. At the community level, a society will soon break down if the words of its members cannot be relied on.

It is shocking, but true, to realise that in this respect, secular society is more in conformity with the Sermon on the Mount! At least it allows for observance of Our Lord's injunction. For example, Parliamentarians are offered the choice of an oath or an affirmation in taking up their duties in the Chamber. The Courts offer the same choice, and if the accused makes the affirmation, no adverse inference can be drawn by Judge or jury.

And the Church? The Church needs to listen to the epistle of St James. It was written within living memory of the Sermon on the Mount and is astonishing in recalling this passage almost verbatim, urging it on to a new generation of disciples.

St James, a relative of Our Lord and leader of the Church in Jerusalem, writes, 'Above all, my beloved, do not swear, either by heaven or by earth or by any other oath, but let your "yes" be yes and your "no" be no so that you may not fall under condemnation.' (James 5:12-13)

The Church needs to put itself under the authority of the Sermon on the Mount, or rather under the authority of the Divine Teacher. Then perhaps it will find itself able to teach the rest of the Sermon with greater credibility, a greater chance of being heard.

The Church needs to hear for itself the final great imperative in this Gospel: 'Teach them to keep all that I have commanded you.' (Matthew 28:20)

Social Justice

Apology to the Stolen Generation:

For the future we take heart; resolving that this new page in the history of our great continent can now be written.

We today take this first step by acknowledging the past and laying claim to a future that embraces all Australians. A future where this Parliament resolves that the injustices of the past must never, never happen again. A future where we harness the determination of all Australians, indigenous and non-indigenous, to close the gap that lies between us in life expectancy, educational achievement and economic opportunity. A future based on mutual respect, mutual resolve and mutual responsibility. A future where all Australians, whatever their origins, are truly equal partners, with equal opportunities and with an equal stake in shaping the next chapter in the history of this great country, Australia.

13th February, 2008. Prime Minister Kevin Rudd.

Scripture Readings

6th Sunday in Ordinary Time, February 12

Sir 15:16-21
Ps 119:1-34
1 Cor 2:6-10
Mt 5:17-37

The Book of Sirach dates to the second century BC. In today's text, Sirach deals with the topic of free will. This theme of "the two ways" is common in many Old Testament texts; we can choose God's way, the way of life, or we can choose to reject God and go our own way. "If you choose," we are told, "you can keep the commandments" (v 15). Sin is our choice, not God's plan, for God commands no one "to act unjustly" (v 20) but offers us the way of life.

Paul tells the Corinthians that God's wisdom is "mysterious, hidden" (v 7). It is not like the wisdom of the Greek philosophers or Jewish sages. It is not acquired through human reasoning; it has been "revealed to us through the Spirit" (v 10).

For Matthew, Jesus is a prophet like Moses was. Surrounded by a large crowd of people, Jesus delivers a set of teachings concerned with how we should live. He tells us that he has come "to fulfill" (v 17) the law and the prophets, a term used to refer to the Hebrew Scriptures. He tells us that not even "the smallest letter or the smallest part of a letter / will pass from the law" (v 18). Jesus shows us that living the law is about more than just our actions; it is also about our thoughts and attitudes. It is not enough to refrain from killing; we must also avoid angry thoughts and words, for "whoever is angry ... / will be liable to judgment" (v 22). We must not only avoid committing adultery; we must also refrain from inappropriate thoughts, for otherwise we commit adultery in our hearts. He is telling us that in order to avoid sinful actions we must keep away from thoughts and attitudes that can lead us to sin.

For reflection: Do I view free will as a blessing or a burden? What are some ways I find effective to avoid temptation?

7th Sunday in Ordinary Time, February 19

Lv 19:1-18
Ps 103:1-13
1 Cor 3:16-23
Mt 5:38-48

The Book of Leviticus is filled with laws, primarily for the priests (who are from the tribe of "Levi") but also for all of the people. As the third of five books of the Torah, its message to the people is concerned with establishing a way of life based on God's commands: "Be holy, for I, the Lord, your God, am holy" (v 2). Because they will be spending 40 years together in the wilderness, God also gives them guidance concerning how to live with each other: "Take no revenge and cherish no grudge. ... / You shall love your neighbour as yourself" (v 18).

Paul reminds the Corinthians that "the Spirit of God dwells in you" (v 16). This means that we live in this world, but we belong to God. Because we are each a "temple of God," we are holy. We are called to live lives guided by God's Spirit. Therefore we should not view ourselves in terms of the wisdom of this world, which is "foolishness in the eyes of God" (v 19).

In the Gospel today Jesus continues his exposition on the commandments, offering his interpretation of how they should be lived. Though Moses said, "An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth," Jesus' command is to "offer no resistance to one who is evil" (vv 38-39). The command to "hate your enemy" that Jesus refers to (v 43) is not found in the teaching of Moses, but it has been found in the Dead Sea Scrolls and would have been known to Jesus' contemporaries. Jesus calls us to not only love our neighbour but also "love your enemies / and pray for those who persecute you" (v 44). We are children of God, who sends the sun and rain to both "the bad and the good" (v 45), so we should follow this example.

For reflection: What does it mean to me to be called to be holy? How does loving my enemy change my attitude toward that person?

Stewardship involves more than just the gift we bring to the altar. Today's readings say clearly that it is fidelity to God's law that makes our offering acceptable.
