Twenty-Sixth Sunday in Ordinary Time, Year A

Psalter Week 2

Sport and Social Justice

Today is Social Justice Sunday. Copies of the Social Justice Statement 2014-2015 are available in the foyer. It is also available for download on the websites of the Australian Catholic Bishops' Conference (www.catholic.org.au) and the Australian Catholic Social Justice Council (www.socialjustice.catholic.org.au).

The title of the 2014-2015 Statement is A Crown for Australia: Striving for the Best in our Sporting Nation. It refers to the First Letter to the Corinthians (9:24-27), where the St Paul compares the "wreath that will wither", for which athletes of the time competed, with the imperishable crown to which we aspire as followers of Christ.

Australians are passionate about their sport. The nation seems to stop for a grand final or a crucial cricket test. Local sporting clubs can be a nucleus for the formation and flourishing of communities: life-long friendships are forged; young people learn skills and resilience; volunteers grow through devoting time and energy to their organisations. Sport brings together people who otherwise might never come into contact.

As our lifestyles become more and more sedentary, sport makes an essential contribution to our health and wellbeing, physical and mental.

In this Social Justice Statement, Australia's can come from sport to us as individuals and as a community: personal development, friendship and solidarity, contribution to health, and the sheer joy of movement and skill. We also have to acknowledge a darker side: violence on and off the field, abuse of drugs and alcohol, racism, sexism and commercial exploitation.

This Social Justice Statement challenges us to look at the place of sport in our lives. How can we ensure that sport can thrive and in return nourish our society, and how can we confront the influences that undermine or distort its ideals?

Of even greater importance is the challenge to realise the potential of sport to unite communities, overcome differences and be a force for social justice and reconciliation.

The Bishops have supplied the following prayer:

*God of all sports (and none):
From our small minds,
How amused you must be
When our prayers about sport
Are about our own success or our team's.
Whose side are you on?
How do you choose*

Around the Parish

Thank You: Our Parish Mission event is now complete so it's time to thank the people who worked to make it successful. Behind the organization was a group of people who also had a team working with each of them to plan and advertise the event, liaise with the schools and other churches and organise equipment. The event involved welcomers, those managing the surveys and parking, collectors, cleaners, those setting up and taking down and those providing transport. In addition there were groups who took responsibility for the superb suppers and morning teas. This too involved even more people so the representation of the parish was impressive. The generosity of these groups was matched by the people who provided billets and this was very much appreciated by all who attended the event. The event not only enhanced our spirituality but also contributed to our sense of community as everyone involved demonstrated amazing good will and service. To all those involved, the parish thanks you most sincerely.

The Just Word

Social Justice Statement 2014/15

The Church recognises sport to be one of the great institutions of our society that helps individuals realise their human potential and builds up the bonds of the community, fostering communal initiative and responsibility. We acknowledge the great contribution over the years made by the Catholic schools and communities. We must continue to recognise that sport is a vital aspect of the society around ### us. Personal development and the love of sport:

When we first experience sport we begin to learn lessons that can last us a lifetime, whether as a member of a team or pursuing an individual sport. We learn the discipline of playing within the rules of the sport: that you can't handle the ball in soccer, throw it forward in rugby, run with it in basketball or bowl from beyond the crease in cricket. We learn about persistence and aspiring to our 'personal best'; that skills don't come easily; and that 'a champion team can beat a team of champions'. We learn that others' needs can come before our own. And that others may be our opponents, but they are not our enemies. We learn that we can face pain and disappointment, even humiliation, and still play and win the next day—or even in the next half.

Scripture Readings

26th Sunday in Ordinary Time, September 28

Ez 18:25-28

Ps 25:4-5, 6-7, 8-9

Phil 2:1-11 or 2:1-5

Mt 21:28-32

Jesus's parable of the two sons is addressed to the chief priests and elders (see v 23), a group opposed to Jesus in Matthew's text. The contrast between the two sons mirrors the difference between Jesus's opponents and sinners. The first son, who originally refused to work in the vineyard, eventually "changed his mind and went" (v 29). He represents the "tax collectors and prostitutes" (v 31) who originally refuse to follow God's way but then have a change of heart. That the sinners repented in response to the preaching of the Baptist should be enough to convince Jesus's opponents to embrace the message of the gospel, but it is not. Because of their hard-heartedness, they will come under judgment.

In the text from Ezekiel, the prophet reminds us that God holds us accountable for our sins. In order to receive God's grace, we must do "what is right and just" (v 27). Writing as an exile in Babylon, the prophet calls us to reject sin and be faithful to the Lord, who is God of all the earth. For Ezekiel, the Israelites are in exile not because the gods of Babylon are greater than their God; rather, the exile is a demonstration of the Lord's sovereignty over all people.

In today's second reading, a text we encountered two weeks ago on the feast of Exaltation of the Holy Cross, Paul calls the Philippians to live lives worthy of the gospel. As Christians, we are called to lead lives of humility and unity, following the example of Christ, who humbled himself and accepted death on our behalf. The vocation of a Christian calls us to conform our lives to that of Christ Jesus.

For reflection: Am I progressing in my spiritual growth? Do I make a conscious effort to follow the example of Christ?

27th Sunday in Ordinary Time, October 5

Is 5:1-7

Ps 80:9, 12, 13-14, 15-16, 19-20

Phil 4:6-9

Mt 21:33-43

As he begins to conclude his letter to the Philippians, Paul continues to exhort them to grow in their faith. If we place our trust in God, then "the peace of God ... / will guard your hearts and minds in Christ Jesus" (v 7). It is this confidence that allows Paul to suffer persecution, imprisonment, and finally death. Paul knows that following the way of Christ ultimately leads to peace, so he encourages them to persevere in their faith.

Today's text from Isaiah serves as a background for Jesus's parable of the vineyard. Isaiah addresses his parable to the people as a word of judgment. God has planted a vineyard with great care in Israel. Even the location, "a fertile hillside" (v 1), is intended to ensure a successful harvest. He "planted the choicest vines" after preparing the soil; yet despite all this, the vineyard only yields "wild grapes" (v 2). Isaiah warns the "inhabitants of Jerusalem" (v 3) that because "the vineyard of the Lord of hosts is the house of Israel" (v 7) and they have produced an undesirable harvest, they are about to face God's judgment.

Jesus speaks of a "landowner who planted a vineyard" and "leased it to tenants" (v 33). This landowner had done everything he could to ensure that the land would produce a good harvest. But in his absence, the tenants refuse to pay the rent, and they abuse the servants sent to "obtain his produce" (v 34). Even his son cannot get them to pay the rent; they "seized him, threw him out of the vineyard, and killed him" (v 39). For Matthew's community these wicked tenants represent those who reject Jesus: they will have the kingdom "taken away from you / and given to a people that will produce its fruit" (v 43). Like the parable in Isaiah, Jesus's parable also challenges us to "produce fruit" or face judgment.

For reflection: Is my life producing a desirable harvest for God? How has God helped me provide a successful yield?

The first son in today's Gospel said he would do his father's bidding, but did not. The second son balked at first, but then repented and did as he was asked. What service is God calling me to do? Which son am I more like?

Sport and Social Justice

When supporters from both sides
Implore your divine intervention?

Remind us that in prayer
Our hearts are opened to you
And our minds lifted beyond ourselves.
Just as prayer changes us,
Not you, O God,
So sport too, can lift us beyond ourselves.
So we pray:

We give thanks for the gift of our bodies,
For the ability to run, walk, jump,
Swim, catch and throw.

We pray for patience and discipline,
That we may learn the joy of mastering new skills:
Achieving success, and cheerfully bearing failure
In the company of others.

We pray that our relationships be enriched

Through the friendships we form.
May we learn to include others across borders
Of language, colour, gender and religion.

We pray that we care for others.
May we especially look out for those
Who are differently abled,
And those often left on the boundaries.

Through our vigilance
May we always play fair,
And ensure that no one is abused or exploited.

Through Christ our Lord. Amen.
