What's Love Got To Do With It?

Bible Text: John 6:32-36

Central Truth: The most obvious demonstration of the Spirit's presence is a lifestyle of love.

Most Christians would like to be more loving. Our intentions are good, but our follow through is often lacking. The real issue is power. We recognize the finite and mortal limits of our will, strength, and courage to love others like Jesus has loved us. But God promises us His power to do what He has called us to do. You are to appropriate that power and turn it loose in your life.

On the outside, from the very human view of things, we cannot and will not approximate the love we are called to give others. We're going to have to be bigger on the inside than on the outside. But how do we do that?

Our answer is found in the power of the Holy Spirit. The most obvious demonstration of the Spirit's presence is a lifestyle of love. We must learn not to interfere with His work at producing love in us. We must open ourselves to His power to make love blossom in our hearts and our habits. The Bible gives us several practical ways to enable His power to love in ways beyond our own power.

Our first step is to focus our hearts on God's redemptive love in Jesus.

We are taught to love by God. We are taught what love is by God. As we focus on God's example of love in Jesus, the Holy Spirit is at work to transform us to be like Him. As we focus on Jesus' example of love and read the Gospels about His loving care for others, we are changed by the Spirit to be more loving.

The Spirit also releases His enabling power to love in our lives when we do loving deeds of kindness to others. Like the Nike slogan says: "Just do it!"

The Bible does not simply say God loves us. Instead, the inspired writers include an example of God's love when they speak of His love for us. Jesus' love and compassion always led Him to action. From God's point of view, love is something you do, not just something you feel.

We are to do loving things whether others deserve it, we feel like offering it, or even if we have the desire to do it. By acting lovingly first, we're demonstrating our faith that God will supply the power necessary to love as He loves. We are then filled with the Spirit when we submit our will and serve others lovingly. Paul says we are to be filled with the Spirit and lists five ways to do this: speaking to one another, singing, making music in our hearts to God, giving thanks, and submitting to one another. In plain old English, when we do loving things to honor Christ, the Spirit gives us the power to do what we cannot do on our own.

Prayer also releases the power of the Spirit to enable us to love. We are strengthened with God's power to be loving to each other.

God continually pours out the Holy Spirit into our lives. The Spirit is like an inexhaustible, ever flowing stream of God's power. The Spirit then becomes the source of God's endless supply of love. While that supply of love is always with us, we tap His power through prayer. Incredibly, the Father then shares that love with us.

Finally, the Holy Spirit enables us to love by moving us and convicting us to respond in love to others' needs.

To live and be led by the Spirit means our lives are shaped by the character the Spirit produces. The cardinal virtue of the Spirit's presence is love and the Spirit's fruit is displayed in loving actions toward others. When we find ourselves moved at the physical needs of another or the need of the lost for salvation, we must recognize this as the work of the Spirit and respond. The Holy Spirit longs to empower our love to meet the needs of the lost and broken in the name of Jesus!

The Holy Spirit is the power of love. This is not a passing, whimsical, emotional love. Instead, it is the power of God. Let's release it by:

- Focusing on God's redemptive love demonstrated in Jesus
- Acting decisively and lovingly to others to honor God; trusting Him to empower us to do what we cannot do on our own
- Praying for God to release His love through the Spirit in our lives, our families and our churches
- Responding with loving action when we are prompted, convicted, and led by the Spirit to help others.

The Holy Spirit dwelling in us enables us to be "bigger on the inside" so we can serve in ways bigger than we are capable on the outside. That's the power of God's love at work in us and that is "What Love Has To Do With It!

Scriptural References:

"But if you love those who love you, what credit is that to you? For even sinners love those who love them. And if you do good to those who do good to you, what credit is that to you? For even sinners do the same. And if you lend to those from whom you hope to receive back, what credit is that to you? For even sinners lend to sinners to receive as much back. But love your enemies, do good, and lend, hoping for nothing in return; and your reward will be great, and you will be sons of the Most High. For He is kind to the unthankful and evil. Therefore be merciful, just as your Father also is merciful." (Luke 6:32-36)

Part III

Bible Text: (John 1:28, 29)

Central Truth: By asking for a cup of water, Jesus was saying, "I don't feel the way others do. Your race, your religion, your gender, your past these don't matter to me. You are a person. You mean something to me.

Three weeks ago, we introduced the plan to learn how to treat people more appropriately. And that plan is really simple. We're going to let Jesus be our coach. We started with Jesus and the Samaritan Woman. Let's continue our discussion this week (John 4:1-29 NLT)

Carl Sandberg told of frequent stands that Abraham Lincoln took against racial prejudice. One particularly stirring drama unfolded on the night of Lincoln's second inauguration ball. He had just delivered the blazing address in which he made famous the words, "With malice toward none; with charity for all; with firmness in the right, as God gives us to see the right, let us strive on to finish the work that we are in."

That evening, in a White House reception room, Lincoln stood shaking hands with a long line of well-wishers. Someone informed him that Frederick Douglass was at the door, but security wouldn't let him in because he was black.

Lincoln broke off from high-level protocol and had Douglass shown in at once. The crowd of guests hushed as the great leader appeared at the door. In a booming voice that filled the silence, Lincoln unashamedly announced, "Here comes my friend Douglass!" And then turning to Douglass, Lincoln said, "I am glad to see you. I saw you in the crowd today, listening to my address. There is no man in the country whose opinion I value more than yours. I want to know what you think of it."

Those who see and respect the rich human qualities in individuals whom others reject blaze pioneer trails through thick jungles of bigotry. The next generation can walk on the path of such giants. What further delays might have impeded race relations in this country without Lincoln's heart and courage? This is Jesus' style as well.

God in the flesh was not only available to a woman like the Samaritan; He was also sensitive to her. He read the signs that told the story of her troubled life. I don't know how Jesus picked up on all the distress signals, other than He was God incarnate. Maybe He'd already heard gossip, or maybe there was some subtle, indescribable something about her that spoke to Him of sadness. Who knows? But somehow He realized that life had sent her little kindness. Perhaps John included this story in his Gospel because few could feel any more unwanted than this woman.

Jesus was sensitive, not only to her hopelessness, but also to the great chasm between them. He, a man. She, a woman. He, a Jew. She, a Samaritan. What do you suppose went through her mind as she walked past the man who sat on the well watching her a Jew who actually opened his mouth to speak to her: "Could you give me a drink of water?" Was she startled, then shocked, then suspicious? Whatever she felt, Jesus most definitely had a hostile person on His hands! She was probably hostile toward men in general, but certainly toward this man, a Jew.

Race lines in Belfast, Kosovo, and the Middle East could scarcely be more tautly drawn than those ancient lines between Jews and Samaritans.

It all began centuries earlier, when the Assyrians carried the northern tribes of Judah into captivity. The Jews had betrayed their heritage by intermarrying with the Assyrians, thus diluting their bloodline and creating so called "mongrel race" called the Samaritans. Their religion became contaminated too. By the time the Samaritans returned to their homeland, their views of God were greatly garbled.

By contrast, when the southern Hebrew tribes were carried off into captivity, they stubbornly resisted the Babylonian culture. They returned from Babylon to Jerusalem, proud that they had compromised neither convictions nor culture. They would remind the Samaritans of the southern superiority at the drop of a skullcap. Even when the Samaritans offered to help rebuild the Jerusalem Temple, the southern Jews vehemently rejected their assistance, and more bricks were set into the wall of prejudice and resentment between Jews and Samaritans. So the Samaritans built their own temple; but in 129 B.C. a Jewish general destroyed it, a slap to Samaritan dignity that stung for centuries. Meanwhile, Jewish bigotry only deepened. So the woman who faced Jesus that day belonged to an unwanted heritage.

This woman also belonged to an unwanted gender: female. In the ancient Middle East, men did not reward femininity with special courtesies and chivalry. In fact, they systematically degraded woman. Some men wouldn't speak to women in public, not even their own wives or daughters. A few were so fanatical that they would literally close their eyes when passing a woman in the street. These were nicknamed the "bruised and bleeding rabbis" because they often collided with walls and trees while their eyes were closed.

As if it wasn't enough that our water bucket lady was from a throw away culture and a throw away sex, this Samaritan woman also seemed unwanted by her own people. Having gone through five husbands, she was now living with a "lover." Her history of rootless romances draped over her like a sandwich sign, advertising to all that, she was a social leper, not welcome at the morning well with proper people. She was a reject, shoved to the edge of humanity, a target of cruel jokes and lustful men. Doubtless, she could see nothing ahead but the empty drudgery of the water buckets and “wifely” bed of a man who wasn’t even her husband. Yet way down inside of her, she had not stopped wishing that somewhere, sometime, some way, God would touch His people — that He would touch her!

Because of social constraints, it was risky to help such people. No one would have blamed Jesus if He had pulled His robe over His face and ignored her. After all, He was tired. The disciples were gone, so who would have known? Besides, if He taught her anything, she probably wouldn’t have the brains to grasp it or the spiritual framework to retain it. And even if she did, she had no credibility to influence other people with His message.

But our Master saw a person who mattered to God. As weary as He was, He quickly sensed a wounded soul badly in need of bandages, and He gently moved her into a nonthreatening conversation. But since He was talking to an outsider, He knew He would need to be unusually creative.

He saw a person precious to God, a stooped and beaten woman with an authentic heart, and He offered her a fragment of acceptance. By asking for a cup of water, Jesus was saying, “I don’t feel the way others do. Your race, your religion, your gender, your past—these don’t matter to me. You are a person. You mean something to me. In fact, I need your help! Could you give me a drink of water?” This account doesn’t imply the emotional brutality that many suggest. Skip down to the result of Jesus’ conversation. We find this stirring response: “Leaving her water jar, the woman went back to the town and said to the people, ‘Come, see a man who told me everything I ever did. Could this be the Christ?’” (John 4:28-29).

Does she act like a woman who has just been caught lying about her sordid past? Just been snared in the trap of her own embarrassing failures? Why would someone who had just been humiliated by a total stranger run to praise that stranger to her family and neighbors?

And, be honest now, if this kind of woman ran up to you and said, “Guess what? I just met a guy at the well who told me every bad secret I was hiding. Come meet him so he can do the same for you.” Do you think you and the whole town would rush out to the well? Not likely! Right? But John says the whole town went out to see Him.

What happened then? The key that unlocks this story is found beside the well: the water jar the Samaritan woman left behind. Somehow, I don’t think she ever retrieved the thing. She had no more need to water the last dry sticks of a dead-end relationship. The empty water jar speaks eloquently. It says that Jesus stirred a slumbering hope to its feet. It declares that this wounded woman found a joy so deep that she forgot to do what she came to do and took off to tell everyone the news, “The Messiah is here!” Instead of lugging heavy jars of tepid water to the house of a demanding human sponge, she piped in living water to all the hearts of a grateful, thirsty village.

Scriptural References:

‘Come, see a man who told me everything I ever did. Could this be the Christ?’” (John 4:29).

WHAT'S IN YOUR PRAYER REQUEST?

Reported by: Melva McClain

I am so pleased to report that Kim Myers and family will be closing on their new home March 23rd and moving in on March 31st. I just knew you would want to join in on this family's celebration.

Congratulations to Kim and her Family!

DEDICATED PRAYER TIME PRAISE CONTINUES

Our sister Eddie Mae Hooker called to share the wonderful resulting praise report from our dedicated prayer time.

Her brother Sam Lockwood has not had a drink of alcohol in two weeks and his hand that was diagnosed as sprained with gout is healing nicely.

Her friend Maggie Dennis has moved back home and attended church on Sunday. Maggie was so grief-stricken from the loss of a love one that she would not stay in her own house . . . She is now back home and strong . . . even calling Eddie Mae to check on her and lift her up. What a God we serve!

HIGHER PRAISE
Cheryl Y. Hudson

I wanted to say that I have been having several medical issues. I had a biopsy in January which turned out to be non-cancerous. I had a second biopsy on March 15th and the results were also normal.

AND MORE HIGHER PRAISE

Original Prayer Request: Dale Hancock, the brother of my brothers' best friend is in Highland Hospital in Oakland, California. Yesterday while asleep he was attacked and beaten severely with a walking cane by an ex-girlfriend. He suffered numerous injuries including brain damage and is on life support. Saints lets get on this one quickly because his prognosis is grim.

Praise Report: Dale has regained consciousness and has been sent to rehab. He has shown a lot of improvement. He is able to talk but his speech is slurred and he's able to walk with assistance.

The family thanks the ministry for their prayers and request continued prayer during his rehab.

"YOUTH RENEWED LIKE THE EAGLES"

Reported by: Denise Jones

GENE ROSENBAUM is back at work in FULL SWING after PROSTATE CANCER surgery. Gene is "WALKING IN DIVINE HEALTH."

Gene is a 62 year old man but after the surgery, he came back looking as if he's gotten younger. EVERYBODY'S talking about how much better he looks; Gene has even grown a beard and mustache. GOD WORKS IN MYSTERIOUS WAYS SAINTS! Thanks so much for your prayers.

FAVOR CONTINUES
Denise Jones

This is from my daughter Anitra; she got a job promotion at BLUE CROSS BLUE SHIELD and is already taking over. She received recognition for top caller of the month in a recent morning staff meeting.

CHANNEL 18 INTERVIEWS

Frances Meeks

Melva, I just wanted to let you know that the show on cable channel 18 with my girls aired again last night (3/15/07). I did not see it, but around 9:30 last night, Sade received an order for a cake, and this morning, Arnetia received a call for micro-braids.

I am going to take Arnetia downtown to get a permit to braid next week. Thanks for thinking about my girls when you were recruiting guests for the show.

HIGHER MOUNTAIN

Lena Williams

Original Prayer Request: Good Evening Saints, Please include our oldest daughter Selika in your prayers. Selika is scheduled for fibroid surgery Wednesday morning at 7:00 AM at St. Dominic's hospital. Where two or more are gathered together in HIS Name. He is in the midst of us. (Mat: 18-19) Jesus is the Healer. We pray for speedy recovery, and declare, "ALL is well."

We give thanks to our Heavenly Father that he has heard us and thank you in advance for your prayers.

Higher Praise Report: Praise God! Thanks be to Our Heavenly Father in Jesus name! Selika's surgery went well. We just left the hospital and all is well just like we called it. Selika is resting fine. We look forward to her speedy recovery.

Thanks to everyone for your prayers.

LAWS OF ATTRACTION

Lena Williams

It's started! Since reading and focusing consistently on the principles of the "Laws of Attraction", I go to the store to make a purchase, and the things I focus on that I have a desire to purchase, I get on sale for 1/2 the original price (or less.) Recently, my thoughts focused on Gourmet Dining Garlic Chicken and stir-fry vegetables which is absolutely delicious, quick to fix and healthy (we love it). It is found in the frozen food section. The cost range is from $5 to $5.50 per bag at Wal-Mart or Targets.

Yesterday I decided to purchase two bags from Target. When the price scanned they were on sale for only $2.12 and $2.49 per bag. The mystery is that it was not an advertised sale. There was no clearance sign. I made sure the dates on the bag were all current and they were. They just scanned as sale items. I was able to buy enough for my freezer. And for Kim when I go to visit her when the baby comes which is something I plan to do. Everything I bought yesterday, I needed and it was on sale. This is the 2nd time within 2-weeks this has happened. The dominate thing that I have purchased scanned as sale but were not advertised as a sale item.

Wow! I am thankful to our Heavenly Father in the name of Jesus. He makes it happen. This is the life and it's becoming a habit.

They are not necessarily things I need desperately but things that I have a desire for or, would just love to have.

We serve such a loving God. Our Heavenly Father desires the best for us. I know He does.

It's the little things that count and if we are faithful with a little. We shall be entrusted with a lot. I'll keep you posted!

"THANK YOU"

Lena Williams

This message is to say a big "THANK YOU" to all of you that prayed the prayer of Jabez for my family and me. My territory (my mind) has been increased 200% or more. I have been getting great revelations from the Holy Spirit all week (02/24/07). Words and ideas having been flowing to me easy and freely; allowing me to complete some projects I have been working on.

A pain in my left knee that persisted for months is completely gone. It's just not there any more. Just as if it never was. I have never wrapped it or taken anything for it. It was painful. I never denied that it was there. I just knew one day it would leave. Well suddenly it's gone without a trace left...rooted out. I feel great!

I am working on some ideas that I know are a result of the effectual prayer of Jabez this week. The effectual prayers of the righteous avail much.

Thanks again for taking the time to pray for me and my family. I am BLESSED INDEED! Just to know that people care is a blessing to me and even though we cannot always see the tangible, we can know that the intangible hand of God and the angels are working 24-7 for us.

It's a great time to be alive! I love each and every one of you and I will continue to pray the prayer of Jabez for you and the members of your family. The best is yet to COME and for NOW I am thankful!

Thank you Carolyn Cooper for having an ear to hear what the SPIRIT of God is saying.

A PERSONAL TESTIMONY – I WANT TO SHARE!

Mary Simpson

I pray for traveling grace before I get in my car and while in it. I Thank God for safe travel – back and forth. Yesterday on I-220 heading northbound just as I was passing the Capitol St Exit - I was in the left lane and an 18 wheeler in the right when all of a sudden it came over and I had no where to go. I felt my hands on the steering wheel and my feet felt like air on the brakes and the steering wheel was moving but I know for a fact it was not me. There was a small bridge or something. I am not exactly sure. I will have to check it out the next time I travel back that way. I just knew I had hit something. I was suddenly in the left lane and the truck was in the right lane. God had literally sat me on a straight path with no physical contact with the truck. The truck was moved out of my way. When I looked into my rearview mirror, the traffic was way back and almost at a standstill.

There was a car that had been on my bumper. I had intended to let it pass. When it was over, the car had passed neither me nor the truck. I hope that person realizes God spared her life as well.

I reported the truck driver of this car to the authorities because she was talking on her cell phone and not paying attention.

I received a follow up call from the Safety Manager of Nashville, TN. They were very apologetic and asked if there was any damage to my car or, if I needed any medical assistance. I assured them that I was okay by the Grace of God.

I then followed the truck to the Methodist Farm Road Exit off of Northside Dr. I had no idea there was a trucking company there until then. When she turned into the gate, I went straight to the office to tell them what happened. I received a call within 30-minutes after I had left. God is Good! I will share this testimony with my Wednesday night Bible class.

LIVE YOUR DREAM!

You made all the delicate, inner parts of my body and knit me together in my mother's womb. Thank you for making me so wonderfully complex! Your workmanship is marvelous and how well I know it. You watched me as I was being formed in utter seclusion, as I was woven together in the dark of the womb. You saw me before I was born. Every day of my life was recorded in your book. Every moment was laid out before a single day had passed. (Psalm 139:13-16)

Yes, you have a dream. We all have a dream!

Let me tell you something about your dream and no matter what it may be . . . it was placed in your heart by God Himself. In Psalm 139:13-16, we are told that from our conception, God knows us, has a purpose for us, and has a plan for us to live that purpose. In other words, God has given us a dream! No matter whom your parents may be, no matter how you came to be, you are not an accident. God has known you all along and has a dream for your life that He has placed inside you! Your job in life is to go live that dream! Are you living your dream?

I'm getting to live the dream that God planted in me! Hope you are getting to do that, too! If you are, you already know what I'm about to say. If not, let me share a couple more things with you about that dream. I believe God wants you to understand some things about the dream He has placed in your heart. First, there will be challenges and distractions to keep you from living your dream. Satan opposes the work of God and he will oppose it in your life. It won't be easy to stay focused on God's dream He's place in you. But you can and you must.

Second, you must honor the Dream Giver with your dream. If you cannot live your dream and honor God, then it's not really an honorable dream — it's not your real dream. If you have to sacrifice your character, your integrity, or your faith for your dream, then it isn't really a worthy dream. God, the great Dream Giver, gave you your dream. He will not give you a dream that does not bring honor to Him.

Third, don't settle for less than the dream God placed in you. He made you for that dream. He made you for His purpose. Don't settle for something less than God's dream. It will be too little, too confining, and too costly in the long run. You may be like a lot of people who are not sure of the dream God has placed inside you. Try meditating on the New Testament Gospels.

The purpose of His will. Chosen! Predestined! Marked! Sealed! Guaranteed! God's plans include us; His great purpose is to redeem those who belong to Him and make good on His promises to grant us an inheritance in His house. The best-laid plans that we can make won't assure anything of that scope. God's plans are as big as putting the whole universe right through Jesus Christ and giving you hope, peace, security and life.

You may need to recommit to the dream God gave you. That way if people are looking for you, all they have to do is listen for the sound of your dream and know that this is where you will be! 📖

THE PROMISE OF SPRING

IN HIS PRESENCE

6:00 P.M. HOUR OF PRAYER

Use this wonderful supernatural tool the Lord has blessed us with the 6 o'clock hour of power. This is the time to intercede for the needs of others, the concerns of the ministry, and to pray for the leadership within our community, our nation, and our world.

Bring all of your cares and burdens to the altar and encourage others to do the same.

Lives are being changed. Breakthroughs are happening.

PARTNERSHIP COMMITMENT

THANK YOU partners for doing your part in 2006. You are truly a blessing to McClain Ministries. Your faithful commitment and support is greatly appreciated. If you have not yet made a commitment to partner with us for 2007, please ask the Holy Spirit to speak to and guide your heart about it. If you will do your part God will do His part.

COMING SOON!

McClain Ministries Internet Radio Station

Internet radio is a broadcasting service transmitted via the Internet.

Because the radio signal is relayed over the Internet, it is possible to access the stations from anywhere in the world. For example; you can listen to an Australian radio station from Europe or America. This makes it a popular service for people who have interests that may not be adequately catered to by local radio stations. One of the most common ways to distribute internet radio is via streaming technology using a lossy audio codec. The MP3 codec is most popular. Our station will be using the MP3 format.

Ownership of a 24 hour Internet radio station will increase our opportunity to share the uncompromised Word of God as well current topics of interest. With one click you can experience recorded as well as live programming in an instance.

The 'live' programming will be specifically geared to our Entrepreneur program as well as meeting the needs of our community. This project will be initiated April, 2007 and completed September, 2007.

McClain Ministries looks forward to serving the global community with yet another project.

All activities are sponsored through donations to McClain Ministries and provided without charge to participants.
