

How to Command Money

Carol Tuttle

As a creator of your reality, you have been busy commanding the energy of money in a manner that creates lack and struggle.

Use that position of authority and power to command money to manifest in a substantial, expanding manner in your life.

If you feel uncomfortable expressing yourself with this much authority that is okay you are just not used to being this in charge of money.

That is what you want to shift, because you are in charge of money it has obeyed your every command in a limiting way, now turn that into increase and expansion.

Right now write 10 very powerful and positive commanding statements about money.

For example:

Money I graciously and gratefully thank you for obeying me.

You have followed my every command in my experience of creating lack. I now choose to create an abundance of increase.

I command you to expand and accumulate in my life.

I command you to show up in expected and unexpected ways.

I command you to have more flowing in then out.

Believe and receive, that is your next step in commanding money.

Focused on what you want, and given a new command to money, the next step is to believe you will be honored and obeyed and therefore receive.

Believe by seeing more money coming in to your life.

When you receive, pause and give thanks.

There are two primary reasons we do not see more miracle's on our lives:

- 1. Unbelief
- 2. Not Asking

God wants to create more miracles for us. We have to learn the part we play in order to allow this to happen.

Start this week changing your unbelief to belief. This is simple to do. Whenever you are hit with a doubt or un- belief, just imagine the word UNBELIEF in your mind and imagine you could erase the first to letters, UN.

This simple technique will change your energy from unbelief to belief just by putting your attention there.

Let's have a quick review of how to command money:

First, own and acknowledge I am a commander of money.

Second, notice what you don't want with your current experience with money. Release what you don't want, let it go. Let go of lack mentality and words associated with that mentality.

Third, write down what you want money to do for you and give money this new charge and command.

Fourth, believe and receive, and give thanks.

Again...

You are the commander of money. Notice what you don't want, let it go. Decide with authority what you do want. Give money your new command. Expect it to happen and it will. Give thanks.

Be patient, remember the only reason you will feel any doubt is because you still are not believing in who you are. You are the creator of your own reality.
