Putting a New Face on your Baby

6" Bébé Bunny
Re-sculpted by Krista Griffiths

Do you want to individualize your baby even more than what can be achieved through merely painting and rooting? Test your creativity and re-sculpt a vinyl doll! It's never been easier to change the shape of the face, nose, eyes and more! Re-sculpting is a remarkable process that allows you to create a truly one of a kind doll!

Below is a mini tutorial on how to re-shape an area on your doll. For more detailed version of this tutorial, visit our blog at www.SecristDolls.com/blog.

Supplies Needed

- Secrist Doll Kit
See on page 34 in reborn section
- Super Sculpey Clay – See on page 13
- Clay Saper Tools – See on page 12
- Oven

Step 1: Wash the face/head to remove any oils.

Step 2: Knead the clay until soft and smooth. Pinch off sections of the clay and apply it to the area you're looking to re-shape. Press it into place.

Step 3: Use your fingers to work the clay into the areas you're changing

Step 4: Use the clay shaper tools to refine and blend the clay. Use a "brush stroke" motion with light but steady pressure, just as if you were painting, to create a friction that will produce heat which will soften the clay, allowing it to evenly smooth.

Step 5: Carefully rub the clay with one finger to give it a smooth finished look. Make sure the transition between the vinyl and the clay is as smooth as possible.

Step 6: Bake on oven-proof glass or metal surface at 275 F° (130° C) for 15 minutes per 1/4" (6 mm) of thickness. (Do not microwave!)

The above doll was re-sculpted by award winning, one-of-a-kind artist, Krista Griffiths with K Pawz Creations. Visit her website at www.kpawz.com.

Brand New for SCULPTING

Clay Match Paint: Four Colors!

One Ounce: US $13.49 | UK £14.89

Do you ever have spots or a hair on your sculpt that you didn't notice until after it's been cooked and too late to do anything about? Authentic Reborn has created paint specifically for sculptors to clean up dirt spots, smudges, hairs, or any other "left overs" that get on your clay sculpt during the sculpting process. You don't have to paint the entire sculpt either, simply use the correct Clay Match Paint color to make touch ups where ever you need them. This is the best way for a sculpt to become the perfect masterpiece you want it to be.

Also use Clay Match Paints for matching vinyl limbs to your clay sculpted head (see tutorial page 4 of the sculpting section). See available colors below:

How to Use CLAY MATCH PAINT

High Quality
AUTHENTIC
REBORN™
Supplies Used in

There are two ways to use Clay Match touch up Paint. The first way is pictured above. You can use the paint to make vinyl limbs look like clay. See the pink vinyl on the left? Then take a look at the vinyl limb on the right that has been colored with the Clay Match paint. Once the vinyl limb is painted with the proper clay match color then you can apply the same cosmetic paints to the vinyl limbs as you would the face.

Clay Match paint comes in several popular clay colors. It's easy to apply. All you have to do is pounce it on with a cosmetic sponge. The sponge leaves a natural grain pattern that resembles the clay. Apply two or three layers as needed. Bake in between each layer at 265 degrees Fahrenheit or 130 degrees Celsius for 8 minutes.

The second way to use Clay Match paint is for touch up on your baby sculpt. Have you ever run into a problem like this with your baby sculpt (see photo below)? It can ruin a great sculpt especially if they show up on the face. With Clay Match paint you can cover these type of imperfections and then apply your other paints on top of that. You will want to test Clay Match paint with the type of paints used use for compatibility. Clay Match works incredibly well with Authentic Reborn™ and Genesis paints. Both brands are heat set paints.

Because this sculpt was made from Pro Sculpt™ the Pro Sculpt™ version of Clay Match was used for this test. A dotted line is drawn to separate the top from the bottom of the sculpt. Can you tell which half has the Clay Match paint and which doesn't? Is it the upper half or the lower half?

Clay Match paint comes in several popular clay colors. Your results may vary depending on the condition of the clay and your method of application.

How to Keep Clay FROM CRACKING ON YOUR SCULPT

High Quality
AUTHENTIC

What causes polymer clays to crack when using an armature for sculpting baby heads? Some people call it “drying out” but what really happens is the plasticizer in the clay, over time, will leave the clay causing it to become brittle and crack. All unbaked polymer clays will eventually “dry out” and crack if they are too old so buy the freshest clay you can. The plasticizer is what keeps the clay soft like water keeps earth clay soft. That is why, if your clays’ not real fresh, you should endeavor to complete and bake a sculpt within two weeks. Once properly baked the clay will not crack but will become very durable.

There are things you can do to slow down the “drying out” process that the unbaked clay goes through. One of the easiest things to do is to seal your armature. Some companies use aluminum foil to cover their armature. But that can be difficult to sculpt over sometimes. With the Secrist form you can apply a simple heat set sealer that will give you extended work time with your clay. Secrist offers a Sealer perfectly (see on page 58) suited to a vinyl sculpting form. Here is a simple procedure to seal your sculpting form.

Here’s how to get started:

These are the items that you will need: Superior Shine Remover Sealer, Secrist sculpting form, craft stick, soft kitchen sponge, and a household paint brush.

Use the craft stick to scoop the Sealer out of the jar and spread it out all over the sculpting form.

Use a sponge to spread the sealer more evenly over the entire surface of the head armature.

Then you can use a standard household paint brush to even out any blobs or lines of sealer still showing on the armature.

In the last photo you can see what the sealed form should look like when coated properly. Brush stroke lines in the sealer are fine. You want to avoid leaving any large blobs or excessively thick streaks on the vinyl. Using the paint brush will give you the best results.

Now heat set the sealer for 8 minutes at 265° F or 130° C.

Congratulations on your new baby head sculpt. I'm sure it was a labor of love and that you are proud of it. If you really don't want to sculpt the limbs that's just fine. There is, after all, a wide variety of life like vinyl limbs available out there. (See page 14) And those vinyl limbs can be painted to match your clay sculpted baby head. In fact I have seen vinyl limbs that were painted so well that I thought they were clay originals. So if you want to use vinyl limbs on your baby let's get started.

The first step is to select the vinyl limb set that looks best with your baby head sculpt. Be sure to get the body slip that goes with those limbs. Now wash those limbs off with Authentic Reborn Vinyl Doll cleaner. This vinyl doll cleaner is solvent free so there are no fumes at all. You don't need gloves or special safety equipment either. It won't remove paint but it will remove oils and dirt from your baby kit. It works fantastically well on oily vinyl kits. You only need one quarter of a penny size drop per vinyl part. Completely wipe down the surface of the vinyl part. Don't add water as it works best on a damp sponge, towel or even with just your fingers. When done rinse off with warm water and towel dry completely. Use the lint-free blue towels to wipe them off (see on page 60 in reborn section).

The next step is to apply Authentic Reborn's new Clay Match Foundation Paint (see on page 3 in sculpting section). You want the limbs to look like clay so you must change the color of the vinyl from plastic to a more closely matched clay look.

This is a foundation paint so it doesn't have to match your clay perfectly. You will be adding many other cosmetic color layers such as blush and more. When done correctly the limbs will look like the same clay material as the head.

First stuff the body slip. It can be very firm or very soft. That is up to you. Once the body slip is stuffed then it's time to connect the cable ties.

Slide the flat end of the cable tie into the buckle end. The buckle has a flat back and that is where you must push the flat end through.

Once the flat end is threaded through the buckle you must pull on it to tighten up the sleeve opening. Don't tighten it more than the photo shows here. If you tighten it too much then you may not be able to fit the limb into the sleeve.

Place the limb in the sleeve and then pull the cable tie to tighten the sleeve until you can barely twist and turn the limb.

Make sure that the cable tie snugs down into the groove at the end of the limb.

Clip the excess cable tie off with side cutter nippers (see on page 51 in reborn section). Be sure that you don't leave any sharp points. Repeat this process for each limb as well as the head.

SCULPTING

Your Q & A with Pat Secrist

Q: The small form is supposed to make a head that is 11 inches circumference for a 17" preemie size baby. But my finished head is way bigger, about 14 inches! Why?

A: The great thing about sculpting forms is they are pre-designed for life-sized heads. You don't need to build it up with clay. Only add about ¼ inch of clay on the form to create the skin - a very thin layer. I like to use the clay pasta machine and run clay through it for a uniform smooth "sheet" of clay. The machine creates a perfect 1/8 inch sheet to apply directly to the form, just like it shows in the DVD. Apply only two sheets to create the ¼ inch thickness all around. By using uniform clay sheets you will correct the issue of putting too much clay on your form, which is easily the most common sculpting problem I run across. The Art of Sculpting Baby Faces DVD teaches you step-by-step if you'd like more specific directions and help. And, best of all, perfecting the "sheet technique" will make sculpting full-size baby heads faster than any other technique!

Q: If everyone is using the same sculpting form won't all our babies start to look the same?

A: Consider this fact; all humans have skulls that are nearly identical. Do we all look alike? Of course not. It's muscles and fat that give each baby its individual character and facial features, not their skulls. Chubby cheeks, eyes, noses, mouths; can be any shape regardless of the form. Your signature sculpting style is unique to you and no one will have a style just like yours. That's why people refer to their sculpts as OOAK!

Q: What is the best paint to use on my clay sculpt?

A: Heat set paints in my opinion are the best for polymer clay baby sculpts. I have studied clay painting for over 25 years and have observed that air dry paint colors tend to fade out with time or even flake off, this includes both acrylic and oil based paint. Often the colors would even change if exposed to sunlight. For these reasons I always use, and recommend, the more stable and permanent heat set paints for clay sculpts. Genesis and Authentic Reborn™ heat set paints have UV blockers right in them (just like sunscreen for clay) so they resist fade. They also have a strong mechanical bond with the clay when baked properly. The kind of paint you use today is critical to how your baby may look tomorrow and in the future.

"By using uniform clay sheets you will correct the issue of too much clay on your form [which causes over-sized head sculpts] ... which is a most common sculpting problem I run across."

Q: I want to sculpt my first full size baby. I don't want to waste money finding out what I need by trial and error. Aside from clay, what are the basics I should start with?

A: This is the number one question all new sculptors should ask! There are four crucial items I recommend:

- a sculpting form with eyes (for sleeping or awake baby),
- a clay pasta machine (do not use a reg. pasta machine),
- the clay shaper tool set (the perfect tool set) and
- the Art of Sculpting Baby Faces training DVD.

The sculpting form ensures your baby's features are balanced and in the right place and will also prevent your baby from looking like a monkey (common problem). The clay pasta machine produces perfect clay sheets for easily applying clay and will prevent over-building. The clay shaper tool set gives you every tool needed to sculpt every feature on your baby. And the DVD shows you how to use the form, the clay shaper tools, the clay pasta machine, and how to sculpt the features. The perfect set-up for a beginner or advanced sculptor!
