Never heard of Lewis Latimer? Now you have.

HISTORY HUSTLE

Lewis Latimer taught himself drafting, helped Alexander Graham Bell develop the telephone, was a member of Thomas Edison's elite research team, and invented a better, more efficient lightbulb than Edison's. Because of Latimer's contributions, bulbs became more affordable, transforming American culture. In the 1980's, his house was saved from demolition and designated a landmark.
