

When Dutch biking company VanMoof began shipping their bikes to the USA, a lot of them were arriving to their new customers damaged, so they decide to put an image of an expensive, flat-screen television on the cardboard boxes. Doing so saw an 80% decrease in damage.

When I hear someone say:
"The government would never do that."

